Janis Lyn Joplin was born in Port Arthur, Texas, on () January 19, 1943, to Dorothy Bonita East (1913–1998), a registrar at a business college, and her husband, Seth Ward Joplin (1910–1987), an engineer at Texaco. She had two younger siblings, Michael and Laura. The family belonged to the Churches of Christ denomination. Her parents felt that Janis needed more attention than their other ... The two lovebirds, it was gathered, later had a spat and went to court over custody of a girl-child they adopted while in Cote d'Ivoire. Ojukwu eventually won the custody brawl as the court ... According to Queen bass player John Deacon, Freddie Mercury did most of the songwriting on this, although everyone contributed. The lyrics deal with how pressure can destroy lives, but love can be the answer. A sweet college coed recounts her sexual awakening. Like most nineteen year-old college girls I loved to have fun, but I couldn't always find what I was looking for.
