Bought this car about 3yrs ago, as a parted out car, that was bought from an insurance company. It was owned by a leasing company in New Jersey, which (deals in) classic cars. I've never done the job. Someone has, and will be along shortly I hope. When I look at the BX2200 Manual, I see that there is an adaptor and tie rod section that shows an internal snap ring suitable for snap ring pliers. Then, on down, there is the steering cylinder section. This section ALSO shows an internal snap ring, but different, and not for snap ring pliers.
